

STUDY DAY MONDAY 20 APRIL NORWICH CASTLE MUSEUM

Norwich Castle Museum, which played host to our AGM in 2019, has offered The Glass Society the opportunity to look at glass behind the scenes and not on public display. The study day coincides with the museum being gifted a collection of mainly C18th English glass and is, therefore, our opportunity to help them and in so doing repay some of their kindness and hospitality.

Members who did not attend the AGM will also have the opportunity to tour the museum and see their outstanding collection of works by the Norwich School of artists as well as the local glass of William Absolon.

The cost of the day, which includes entry to the museum is £15pp.

Places for the event will be strictly limited, available on a first come basis. Depending upon the numbers we may divide the party into two groups with the first group being ready to start at 11am, whilst the second group tour the museum. We will reverse the groups after lunch. Exact timings may be changed once numbers are known, but if we aim to assemble at 10.30 in the café, I would anticipate departure by 3.30pm

Norwich, NR1 3JU

Ample car parking is available in the Castle Quarter, NR1 3DD, and levels K-N offer the easiest route to the museum. The museum restaurant is due to be refurbished this year and whilst there will be a skeletal café service, those requiring more substantial lunchtime fayre will need to go to the nearby restaurants.
